

SUMMARY SPORTING REGULATIONS IAME SERIES NETHERLANDS-NK IAME – ROOKIE

- In the 2023 Sporting Regulations, Rookies are generally referred to as first-year drivers; the starting point.
- The IAME Mini Rookie class is designated as a starter class for first year IAME Mini drivers.
- Provisions can be established for each class that apply specifically to that class.
- Through this document we offer you all the details documented.

IN GENERAL

For all classes, if a driver participates in competitions during the season that are listed on the FIA Karting Calendar 2023 or on the RGMMC Group IAME Euro Series Calendar 2023, this driver may not participate in one of the Rookie classes/sub-classifications.

CLASSES IAME MINI and IAME MINI ROOKIE

- The IAME Mini Rookie class is considered a starter class for first year IAME Mini drivers.
- The age and experience of the drivers are the starting points for placement in one of the two classes.
- IAME Mini: from 10 to 11 years (year you turn 10 to year you turn 12).
Where the 10-year-olds (and 9 years in the year you turn 10) have the free choice between the IAME Mini and IAME Mini Rookie classes.
- IAME Mini Rookie: from 7 to 10 years (year you turn 10).
Where the 10-year-olds (and 9 years in the year you turn 10) have the free choice between the IAME Mini and IAME Mini Rookie classes.
- The first 10 classified drivers in the Final Standing IAME Mini Parilla National 2022, who wish to race in the 2023 season in the IAME Mini or IAME Mini Rookie class, regardless of age, must participate in the IAME Mini class. This rule can be deviated from on request, with the final decision being reserved to the organization.
- The organization is authorized to determine whether a driver - regardless of age - should start in the IAME Mini or IAME Mini Rookie class, among other things based on the experience that this driver has gained in one of these classes or comparable classes in another championship.
- If a driver, who has reached the age of 11 years, registers as a first-year IAME Mini driver to start in the IAME Mini Rookie class, the decision about this lies with the organization.
